There are two important components in creating a wrap that last.

First we use special solvents to remove dirt and grease so your vinyl does not lift prematurely. In some cases we apply a primer in areas of concern to make sure that the vinyl does not lift prematurely.

The second step is to make sure that the wrap is installed by a qualified installers. Our installers have over two decades of experience wrapping vehicles and working with the 3M vinyl.

To make sure your wrap last a long time we take the following steps:

- Thorough cleaning and preparation
- Minimize the stretching of the vinyl to avoid shrinkage
- Seal the edges to prevent lifting

Installing Your Wrap

“ I had a wrap designed by an agency for my pickup. I shared the mockup with Derek and he confirmed that they could replicate the design, print and install my wrap in Stoney Creek. I was impressed with the quality of the print and installation and have had lots of complements. I am now having Perfect Wraps design my trailer and second pickup.

You too can help to prolong the life of your wrap by:

1. Cleaning it thoroughly before dropping off.
2. Avoid washing for at least two weeks after installation.
3. Minimize the use of pressure washes in the future.

It is difficult to tell how long it will take to remove your wrap.

Here's why.

Different types of vinyl remove differently. Laminated Cast 3M vehicle vinyl is the easiest to remove but is the most expensive ... so companies use lower cost vinyl that is difficult to remove and leaves a residue.

They look the same and it is difficult to identify once installed.

Some installers apply primer on their wraps to prevent lifting which makes it difficult to remove. Even when the vinyl is removed the sticky primer stays on the vehicle and requires a special solvents to clean. Unfortunately it's not possible to anticipate until you start removing the wrap.

Graphics Removal

“ I was looking for a company to wrap four vans and a trailer and wanted the design to associate two different companies. Derek suggested ways to accomplish this. We are now incorporating the concept into all of our other marketing. The Perfect Wraps team were very flexible installing on week-end. We will be using them to wrap four more vehicles in the spring.

Some lettering can be extremely difficult to remove especially if it's been on the vehicle for a while. In some cases it requires a special rubber wheel tool and many hours to strip.

Removing vinyl from a vehicle can damage your paint. Too much heat can result in residue and not enough can cause the paint to lift - so it is important to have it removed by a professional.

Cleaning the residue can take longer than removing the wrap - even with the right solvents.

We use a special 3-step-process to reduce the chance of damaging your paint.
